Responsibilities

In accordance with the Data Protection Act dated January 6, 1978, you have the right to access, rectify, modify and delete data concerning you. You can exercise this right by sending an Email to the following address: business at highwaytofrance dot com or via the contact form.

The site contains links to other sites that we do not operate. Although we constantly monitor the quality of the links referenced here, we cannot in any way be held responsible for the provision of these links allowing access to these external sites and sources, and cannot bear any responsibility for the content, advertisements, products, services or any other material available on or from these sites or external sources which are neither verified nor approved by the Highway to France team.

Reproduction

The French law of March 11, 1957 authorizes, under the terms of paragraphs 2 and 3 of Article 41, on the one hand, only "copies or reproductions strictly reserved for the private use of the copyst and not intended for use collective" and, on the other hand, that analyzes and short quotations for the purpose of example and illustration ("any representation or reproduction in whole or in part, made without the consent of the author or his beneficiaries or successors in title, is unlawful" - paragraph 1 of article 40).

Any abusive representation or reproduction of the Highway to France website, by any procedure whatsoever, would therefore constitute an infringement punishable by articles 425 et seq. of the Penal Code. The texts posted online on the Highway to France website, unless otherwise stated, are the intellectual and legal property of their author. Unless expressly agreed, the Highway to France website only authorizes the reproduction of the title of the articles produced and not the accompanying text (summary of the summary or start of the article) with a direct link on the Highway to France website (<https://www.highwaytofrance.com>, without using frame or redirection). In all cases, these original texts can only be cited on condition of notifying the administrator by completing the appropriate form (Contact).

Finally, all the brands mentioned belong to their respective authors, most of whom are registered trademarks.

Cookies HIGHWAY TO FRANCE

To ensure the proper functioning of our site, we use cookies like the majority of websites. A cookie is a small text file stored on your computer when you visit a site. In our case, these cookies allow us to save your user sessions or your shopping cart on your computer in order to improve your user experience. These cookies are managed automatically by your internet browser. Cookies stored by your browser can be deleted at any time using the browser options.

Cookies Google Analytics

Highwaytofrance.com uses Google Analytics for its audience monitoring. Google Analytics is a Google web analytics tool that helps website and app owners better understand their users' behavior. This tool may use cookies to collect anonymous information and report on website usage statistics without individual users being personally identified by Google.

In addition to reporting on website usage statistics, the Google Analytics pixel tag also, in combination with the advertising cookies described above, allows you to display more relevant ads on Google sites (such as Google Search) and on the Web.
